Marine15 Judged the Best Ever

The marine15 International Conference and Trade Exhibition concluded today with delegates and exhibitors full of praise for the event. According to Organising Committee Chairman Jeff d'Albora the 450 participants experienced what is generally agreed to be the best ever event over its decade long evolution. "The speakers' content, trade exhibition and event location have all exceeded expectations."

USA speaker Steve Ryder, Manager of Project Development with Bellingham Marine said the event is one of the best marine industry events in the world. Leigh Francis from All Marine Spares commented on the quality of the delegates and the excellence of the venue for networking and building business relationships. Shelly Grice from the Department of Transport WA said the event with its three streams of boating safety, boating business and marinas provided delegates with a rich array of topics providing excellent networking and learning outcomes.

Neil Patchett from the Australia and New Zealand Safe Boating Education Group said the 2015 edition of the event had helped shape the approach to safety for the medium to long term.

Marine15 provided a rare and valuable opportunity to learn and share information and innovations in the promotion of safe, responsible and enjoyable boating."

Technical tours and special interest meetings are continuing onto Thursday 7 May when the participants from 17 countries will have departed with a view to reconvening again in 2017.
